HISTORY & OVERVIEW

The first explorers documented in Spanish Fork were two Franciscan Friars named Silvestre Valadez de Escalante and Francisco Antanasio de Dominguez. Escalante and Dominguez were searching for a direct route from Santa Fe, New Mexico to Monterey, California when they camped in present-day Spanish Fork in 1776.

The area was mostly populated by the Ute Indian tribe until 1851 when Mormon pioneers also settled in the area. The relationship between early Spanish Fork residents and the Utes was relatively peaceable. Although very few battles have been documented between the different peoples, Spanish Fork residents built a fort to protect themselves within the City limits in 1854.

Enoch Reece was the first to build a home and claim to 400 acres of land in the Spanish Fork area. He was soon followed by his business partners, Charles Ferguson and George Sevey. Soon, many more families settled in the Spanish Fork area, and on January 19, 1855, it was officially incorporated as a city. Soon after incorporation, the first Icelandic immigrants settled in Spanish Fork.

Spanish Fork continued to thrive as it welcomed industry and education to its city limits when a sawmill and a school house opened in 1858 and 1862, respectively. In 1910, Thurber school was built, which now houses the City Offices.

Spanish Fork events and activities have many unique celebrations. Not only does it have Fiesta Days, accompanied by an incredible rodeo to celebrate its Spanish heritage, but it also has Icelandic Days to remember and celebrate the Icelandic heritage that settled here. Plus, the Festival of Lights, Harvest Moon Hurrah, and Wings & Wheels at the Airport are must-attend events.

Spanish Fork is a community that strives to maintain a high quality of life, and provides an outstanding environment for working, recreating, and enjoying life. City government is the Council-Manager form consisting of a part-time mayor and five part-time City Council members, along with an appointed full-time City manager who administers the operation of the City and its employees.

The City shares a wastewater treatment plant with Mapleton and maintains over 150 miles of sewer collection pipe. The sewer division cleans about a quarter of the sewer lines each year and video inspects all lines once every seven years.

What can I do to help?

- Do not flush grease or oils into the sewer system. These products build up inside the collection pipe.
- Please try to avoid flushing feminine hygiene products and baby wipes, even "flushable" wipes, into the sewer. Flushing these products is the leading cause of sewer backups.
- Do not flush any type of medication into the sewer. For information, visit www.spanishfork.org/sewer
