AIR CONDITIONER CHECK-UP

Warmer temperatures are right around the corner, so it’s time to think about your home’s air conditioner. Keeping your air conditioner maintained not only saves you money on energy, but also saves money on costly repairs. To check up on your air conditioner:

- Replace the air filter on your HVAC system to help the fan in the system work more efficiently and effectively;
- Clean debris and vegetation from around the condenser (the unit located outside) for air flow and make sure fins are clean (do not use a pressure washer); and
- Replace any damaged foam insulation around the copper tubing going from the house to the condenser.

If your air conditioner is not performing like it should, now is the time to consult a professional for a tune up before you really need that air conditioner.

If you have to replace your air conditioner or are adding a new one, a building permit is required. If you have questions, please contact the Building Inspection Division at (801) 804-4540.
